Introduction

In 2020, The National Association of Diversity Officers in Higher Education (NADOHE) created a framework to advance anti-racism strategies and anti-Black racism at their respective institutions of higher education. This work was undertaken in response to the rise in incidents of anti-Black racism on college campuses throughout the United States and the tragic and senseless murders of Breonna Taylor, Ahmaud Arbery, and George Floyd, among many others.

This new framework addresses ten priority areas where anti-racism strategies would significantly improve conditions for Black, Indigenous, and People of Color (BIPOC) students, faculty, and staff and is applicable for a variety of college and university types.

The ten priority areas are:

1. Institutional Structure
2. Policies and Procedures
3. Resource Allocation
4. Academic Equity and Student Success
5. Curriculum and Pedagogy
6. Hiring, Retention, and Promotion
7. Institutional Programming
8. Education/Training/Employee Development
9. Campus Climate and Culture
10. Admissions and Access

In 2021, Metro State's Office of Equity and Inclusion partnered with the Council for Equity, Inclusion and Anti-Racism (EIAR) to create a university-wide Equity, Inclusion and Anti-Racism Plan utilizing the NADOHE framework. The work was reflective of past efforts by numerous university stakeholders, the Council reviewed the following existing documents as a part of the process to create the new plan:

- Past Institutional Equity and Inclusion workplans
- Previous employee and student campus climate surveys
- The 2020 and 2021 Day of Honoring, Learning, and Action recommendations
- Inter Faculty Organization Equity and Inclusion 2021-2025 Plan
- Minnesota State Equity 2030 Equity Fellows Report

The Council wanted to create a holistic approach to understand what was on the hearts and minds of all University stakeholders. In doing so, it was vital to engage all students, staff, and faculty in a series of university-wide conversations as part of the plan's development. In the spring of 2022, the Council invited all campus members to participate in facilitated participatory conversations around the University's efforts to advance Equity, Inclusion, and Anti-Racism across the institution.

These conversations were held virtually on four separate occasions after conducting two virtual gatherings where the Council shared the University's process, purpose, and framework. These facilitated conversations allowed participants to review prior initiatives and in small break-out sessions discuss powerful questions that would inform and educate the Council on the important priorities to be addressed over the next three to five years.

In April 2022, participants reconvened as part of a leadership development workshop which aimed to increase the leadership capacity of university stakeholders. Participants were provided an opportunity to review the plan that was developed following the facilitated participatory conversations. Dr. Artika Tyner spoke to the University community on the importance of the Leader Within.

Following her talk, the University community was again invited to participate in small group conversations using the L.E.A.D. model to debrief Dr. Tyner's address, to review the proposed plan, and to help prioritize the actions that would be implemented during FY23 and FY24. The following areas were prioritized by the University community participants:

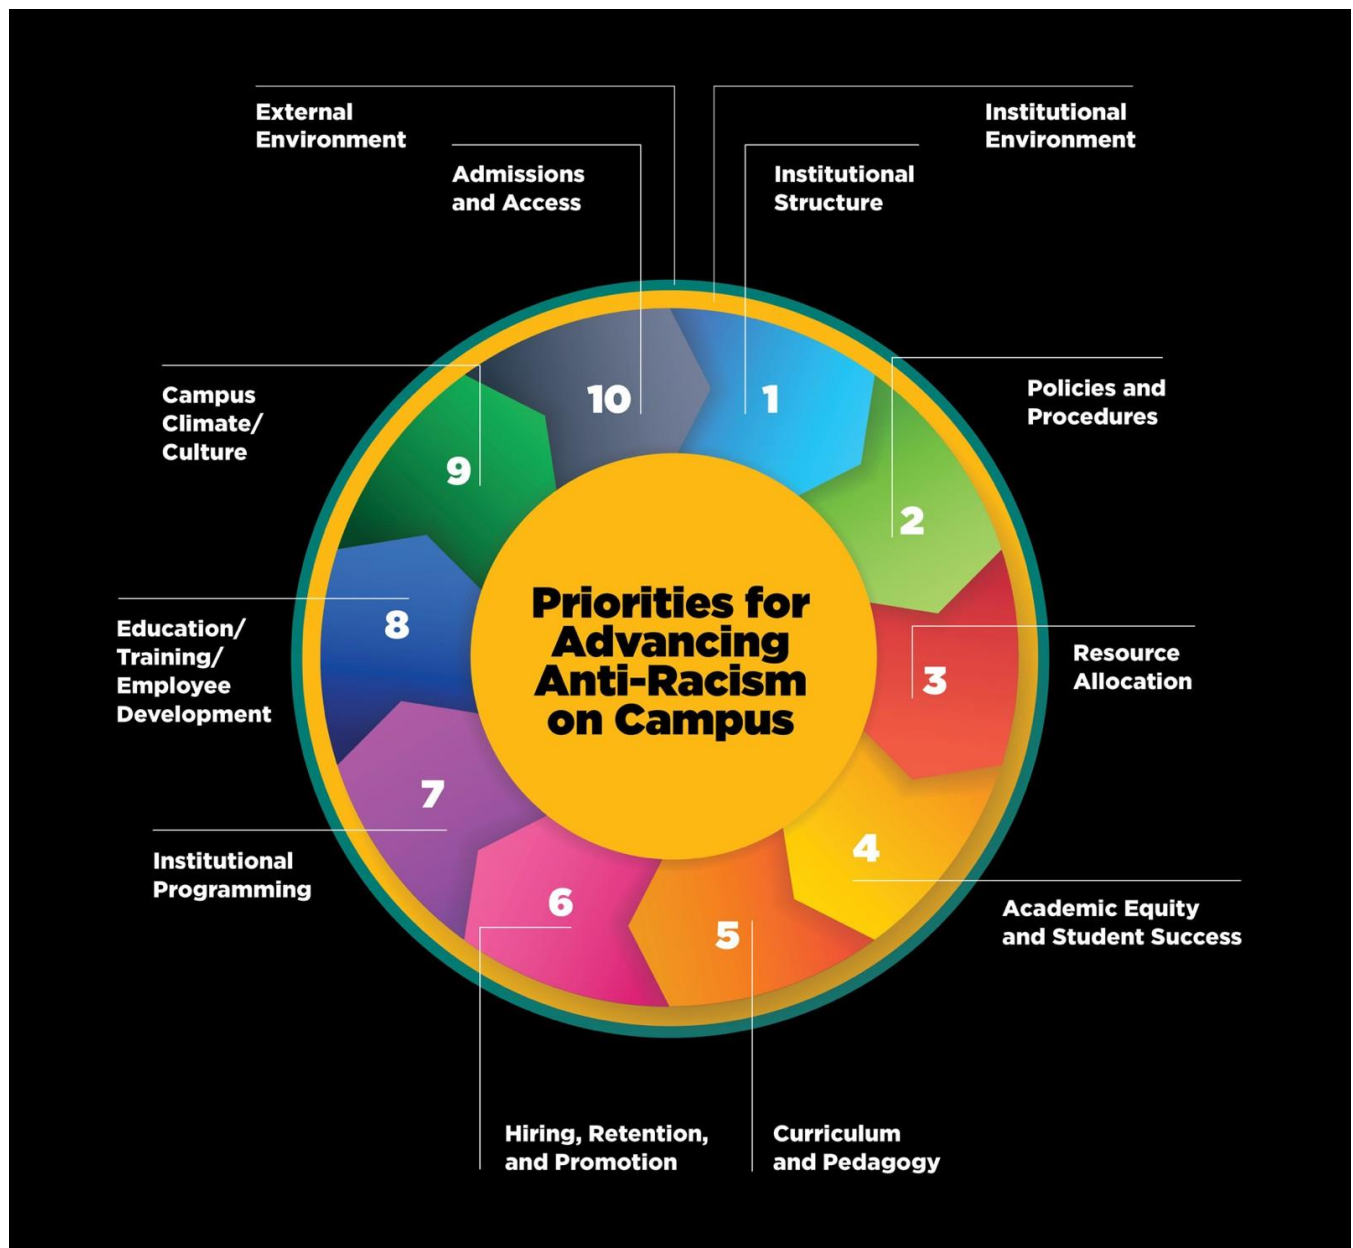

- Academic Equity and Student Success (Priority Area 4)
- Hiring, Retention and Promotion of Black and Indigenous faculty and staff (Priority Area 6)
- Education/Training/Employee Development for Equity, Inclusion and Anti-Racism (Priority Area 8)
- Campus Climate and Culture (Priority Area 9)

Metro State University's Equity, Inclusion, and Anti-Racism plan is nested within the university's strategic priorities #1 Student Success and #5 Respect, Equity, and Inclusion. In addition, the priority areas identified in this plan of action align with Minnesota State Equity 2030's goals that by 2030, Minnesota State will eliminate the educational equity gaps at every Minnesota State college and university.

In the pages that follow each framework priority area is described and the corresponding recommendations made by the university community are included. Where efforts had already been under way and action taken appropriate notes are included as a way of updates on the work. More importantly, the Equity, Inclusion, and Anti-Racism Council worked through a prioritization process to outline the goals and actions steps that will be taken in the FY23 and FY24 academic years. See pages 17-23.
